

Questions and Answers

Who and what can be funded by Durchstarten and why?

What is the purpose of Durchstarten and who is it for?

Public funding should be accessible to everybody. This is currently not the case yet. Some people are faced with so many barriers that they can't apply for public funding for their own projects. This applies to young people, people with disabilities, people with migration background and refugees, among others.

Through a simplified application process, we want to lower the barriers within the funding system, so you can be more active in the field of Arts Education.

What is Arts Education ("Kulturelle Bildung")?

For us, Arts Education means the engagement of children, teenagers and young adults in the wide field of arts and culture. They use arts and culture as a means to deal with topics they find interesting and relevant. Furthermore, the young people have a say in how projects are designed.

What do you mean by "barriers"?

For us, barriers in the application process mean that people can't apply for public funding, because they are faced with a variety of obstacles within the system of the application process. For example, such obstacles are:

- Language:
"I've been learning the German language for only a year now. How can I manage to fill in an application form of 10 pages?"
- No access:
"I'm blind. This is why I'm using a screen reader reading out loud contents shown on the computer screen. The current online application can't be read properly by the screen reader."
- Bureaucracy:
"I've been having good project ideas for some time and I've already tried to apply for funding but failed because of the bureaucracy – so many steps and technical terms that I'm not familiar with."

Applications are submitted on the basis of self-assessment. Ask yourself: "Am I one of the persons Durchstarten was made for? Or do I actually have the possibility to hand in a regular application, for example in funding stream 1 ("Fördersäule 1"), and need only some advice?"

What kind of projects do you fund?

Your project has to fulfil the following conditions:

- Tandem principle: You are an expert working together with at least one cooperation partner. You and your partner have to cover the two following fields:
 - 1) Arts/Culture (you are an expert in an art form or another artistic partner is taking part in the project, for example a theatre, dance group or musical institution)
 - 2) Youth or Education (a school, youth club, association, etc.)
- Young people up to the age of 27 living in Berlin are participating in the project. They are actively involved in the course and the content of the project and are given space to influence the process. However, the person(s) carrying out the project can be older!
- You are doing something artistic in the project. For example, you are doing music, dance, rap, graffiti, producing a play or performance. In so doing, you are dealing with topics the participants find interesting.

Can people over the age of 27 participate in my project?

Yes. However, the majority of the participants mustn't be older than 27 years.

What do you mean by “expert“?

A person carrying out the project. The expert is also the beneficiary (“Zwendungsempfänger*in”), that is the person receiving the money every month and managing it. S/he will have to write a report when the project is finished.

Experts are people from the fields of arts & culture, social affairs/education, and youth. Experts can also be people who have some experience working in projects or with young people. You don't necessarily need a professional degree in the respective field. You should describe what makes you an expert in your application.

Can I get funding if I don't want to work with young people?

No. But there are funding programmes that might apply to you, such as the Berlin Senate's programme „Weltoffenes Berlin“. You can also get advice from the Kulturförderpunkt (Culture Funding Point).

Do I need to have been doing projects before to get funding at all?

No.

Can I get funding if I'm under the age of 18?

No.

Cooperation partners

What is a cooperation partner (“Kooperationspartner“)?

A partner you are doing the project with. You need at least one partner through which young people will be reached to take part in your project. If you are doing the project with more than one partner, one partner ensuring that there will be participants in your project is enough.

There are different types of possible cooperation partners:

- From the field of arts & culture (“Kulturpartner“): for example individual artists (dancers, rappers, singers, actors, performers, painters, etc.). Or a person who has artistic skills but who is not doing it as a profession or steady job. The cultural partner can also be an institution or organisation such as a theatre, a cultural association or an artistic initiative or group.
- From the field of education (“Bildungspartner“): a partner from the areas of formal education, apprenticeship/schooling, or counselling. For example, a school, child care centre, educational society (“Bildungsverein“) or an educational initiative.
- From the field of youth (“Jugendpartner“): a partner from the areas of youth leisure facilities, upbringing, places where young people are spending time. For example, a youth centre or youth club, a self-organisation, etc.

In each project, there must be at least one partner/expert from the field of culture & arts and one partner/expert from the field of education or youth. For example, you could work together with a school as an artist. Or you are a teacher who wants to work with a music group.

Can I cooperate with an institution or association I already working for?

You mustn't be a member of this association or institution, neither in its board nor for other administrative tasks. Moreover, you mustn't be employed there. However, a cooperation is possible in case you've only occasionally taken on tasks for this institution or association.

How can I find cooperation partners?

For example, you could look for partners using Kubinaut's bulletin board. Or you could ask directly at schools, youth clubs or other institutions in your neighbourhood.

My cooperation partner won't be doing the project with me anymore. What can I do?

Please inform us immediately and look for a substitute partner as soon as possible.

Deadlines, project duration & money

For how long and how often can I get funding?

Only one time for a duration of up to 12 months. Durchstarten is meant to help you get started, so that later on you can get money through our other funding programmes. There you can get funding more than once. Don't hesitate to contact us if you have any questions regarding the application procedures!

How often can I apply for funding?

Once a year. You can find the deadlines on <http://www.facebook.de/DurchstartenBerlin/> or www.durchstarten.berlin.

When can I start with my project?

In February of each year.

How much money can I get per project?

12.000 euros maximum.

A friend of mine and I want to carry out the project together. Can both of us get money?

Yes. Depending on your involvement in the project, each person can get up to 1.000 euros per month. The project's maximum total costs can't be more than 12.000 euros. The expert submitting the application will receive the money for both of you and will then use that money to pay the second person.

Here is an example: You are working in a team of two. Person A (the expert) is responsible for project management and coordination. Person A will also carry out music workshops. Person B will lead some additional workshops during the first 4 months of the project. Person A receives 1.000 euros per months for him/herself and an additional 500 euros per month for 4 months to pay person B. The project can have a duration of 10 months without exceeding 12.000 euros.

What is a beneficiary ("Zuwendungsempfänger*in")?

A person receiving funding from us. S/he carries out the project, manages the money, pays other people working in the project and attends our exchange meetings to report on the project. Also, s/he will submit a written final report once the project is finished. There can be only one beneficiary in each project.

What can I use the money for?

Things needed for the project only, such as fees (e.g. for artists), materials or rental costs for technical equipment.

You can find a list with details about what you can and can't spend the money on at the end of this document.

How much money can I earn as an expert?

There is no prescribed rule for this. However, we recommend you to use 30 euros per hour as a rough guideline. When estimating your working hours, please take into account the time you will need for preparation and follow-up work. You don't need to inform us about the number of hours, but we recommend you to make an estimate for your personal planning!

Do I need to tell you what I've spent the money on?

Yes. You will have to hand in a report of about 2 pages, in which you are also listing all your expenses („Verwendungsnachweis“ or „Abrechnung“). You don't have to submit all your fee contracts, bills and receipts. However, please keep them in case we have an inquiry and need to see them.

I get social benefits such as "Hartz IV" or BAföG. Can I still get money for my project?

Yes. But you need to inform the office ("Amt") responsible for your social benefits about the fee you will receive in the project. They might consider your fee in calculating your social benefits.

All this sounds complicated. Can you help me?

In case you get funding from us, you will receive altogether 4 coachings where we will explain how everything works.

Where does the money for Durchstarten come from?

Durchstarten is a project of the Berliner Projektfonds Kulturelle Bildung. This fund is a funding programme of the Berlin government organised by Kulturprojekte Berlin GmbH. The project fund receives about 3 million euros per year in order to support artistic projects with young people.

In what language can I write the application?

German. But don't be afraid of making mistakes! What is most important is that you describe what you want to do.

My German is not so good. Can you help me translate the application?

No. But maybe you could ask your cooperation partner for help.

You ask about my special experiences as an expert. What do you mean by that?

Please describe here what distinguishes you as the creator of the project. For example, you can describe what experiences you've already gained in Arts Education, arts or culture. Maybe you've already participated in many projects yourself? Maybe you've already dealt with the participants of your project in the past or you have a lot in common, and that's why you know what topics they're enthusiastic about? What experiences have you already gained in the artistic field or in working with young people? You have also the possibility to describe here why you can't apply for our other funding programs.

I have already handed in my application but I would like to make some changes. Is that possible?

No. But of course you can inform us about additional information regarding your project per e-mail or telephone.

Why can't I fill in the application form?

There are some pdf readers that can't read the form properly. Please download Adobe Acrobat Reader (freeware) to fill in the form.

My cooperation partner might not be able to sign the application in time. Can we hand in the signature later?

No.

I will work together with several cooperation partners. Do all of them have to sign the application form?

Only one cooperation partner can sign the form, along with the expert. For each additional partner, a signed Letter of Intent \("Absichtserklärung"\) has to be submitted along with the application. This applies to individuals as well as institutions, associations etc. In this letter, the partner declares their interest in participating in the project.

What can I do with the money?

As a general rule, the money can be spent on expenses needed for the project only, such as fees (e.g. to pay artists) or materials/equipment

Fees

- If you're self-employed: you use an "internal" invoice for yourself, a so-called "Eigenbeleg". It works like a regular invoice but you have to change the word "Rechnung" (invoice) for "Eigenbeleg". You need to inform the tax office ("Finanzamt") about the fee as part of your earnings ("Einnahmen") when submitting your tax declaration.
- If you receive social benefits such as BAföG or "Hartz IV" you need to inform the office ("Amt") responsible for your social benefits about the fee you will receive for yourself.
- If you're paying another person working in the project: you need to make a contract and that person must write you an invoice.

Materials/equipment

- Materials for the project, such as costumes, stage decoration, office materials, flyers, posters, DVDs, food (e.g. fruits, non-alcoholic drinks, delivery service / you can't buy: visits to restaurants, cigarettes, etc.). Technical devices are allowed up to 100 euros each, up to 1.000 euros in total. If you rent a device the rental charge can be more than 100 euros.

What you can't buy

- Monthly BVG-ticket ("Monatskarte") – You may reclaim travel expenses (for trips from home to work) in your tax declaration
- Private liability insurance ("Haftpflichtversicherung"). Exception: project participants have no coverage through their school, child care centre, association, etc. or parents)
- Rent (housing) – individuals can use the fee they receive for their project work to pay rent

Note

You don't have to submit all your fee contracts, bills and receipts. However, please keep them, in case we have an inquiry and need to see them.
